

REMARKS

The foregoing amendments were made to better conform the specification and claims to a style that is more acceptable for filing in the United States. The term "highly dispersed", which is a literal translation of the German term "hochdispers", was more particularly explained so as to reveal this term's true meaning as intended when the original parent German application and corresponding PCT application were drafted. No new matter was added since the definition of the term "hochdispers" is inherent subject matter. In addition, the claims were amended to more particularly claim what Applicants regard as their invention. Finally, Applicants have prepared a new abstract that is more description of the invention compared to the abstract set forth in the PCT application.

Dated this 19th day of September 2000.
